Exotic seductions

This Spring/Summer, enter the walls of Marrakech with Gucci and explore the world of sensual colors and desert allure where women distinguish themselves with a powerful and adventurous modern Amazon attitude. writes Cindy Chan aspired by the enchanting culture of Marrakech. Gucci's SS 2011 Collection "Sophisticated Seduction" introduces Berber accents and precious handmade materials which are tailored to follow the body's silhouette for an ethnic Mediterranean spirit in perfect sophistication.

Turquoise, orange and hydrangea purple and other iewel-colored silks project a vivid color blocking with loose initial lines that give relaxed deconstructions and structured outlines of the body. Paired up with chunky gold accessories, laden with its iconic bamboo-elements. the style produces a strong and self assured woman who stands out from the crowd.

with harness straps, chains and gold rings for a dazzling touch. Bronze and ethnic embroidery on jackets add the final touches to complete the look.

Last in line is the evening wear which gives women the power to provoke and seduce with personality. Onepiece tuxedoes with masculine signature, harem pants, and jewelry set in the neckline resonances the bold and strong characters which women possess today with a feminine touch as it is embossed with crystal embroidery, silk tassels and metal. A thriving mix of colored feathers and perspex detailing for totem dresses brings a sensual thrill to the night.

The Collection is also matched up with oversized gold Berber-style bracelets and bamboo bracelets and chokers, booties and sandals which feature metallic heels and python detailing, golden snakeskin belts, the new Bamboo bag with dark handle and a variety of prominent stitching and weaving in bags and clutches. Thus, it creates a totally new intellectual tribe of exotic women under the urban
